Our Story

The first chapter of our story stretches back 114 years ago to 1905, when 43 local Yarraville men gathered to establish the "Yarraville Citizens' Club" – a place to promote 'good fellowship' & 'greater community connections'.

The Club leased its first official residence at the former Edmundson Bag Factory on Simpson Street, Yarraville. The newly renovated space was the perfect place to meet, talk, laugh – & build lifelong friendships.

By 1909, Yarraville Club members proposed to purchase their own club premise. A member of the Yarraville Club, Mr James Cuming, generously offered his own land in nearby Stephen Street, complete with modern clubrooms & a public hall for free & permanent use by the Club.

On 29th January 1910, the official opening of the "Yarraville Citizens' Club & 'James Cuming Institute' at 135 Stephen Street (where the Club still exists today) took place & was described in the local press as "Yarraville's finest day".

The Club grew & prospered, offering a friendly, welcoming venue for members to gather. The Yarraville Club's involvement with local sports flowed on to the establishment of associated social/sub clubs run by members & their wives – & that commitment to community-focused inclusion still drives us today. For social activities, arts, culture & fun, The Yarraville Club was, & still is, 'the place to be' in the Yarraville community.

1957 was a significant milestone for the Club as it is known today when it was renamed The Yarraville Club & members finally became "masters of our own affairs".

In 1959, the Yarraville Club was changed to include a modern bar &, in 1959, The Yarraville Club was granted a liquor licence.

As the Club's prosperity & popularity continues to increase, we look back on our heritage with pride & remain committed to promoting good fellowship – our link to a motto that brings together the strands of the past, with hopes for a bright future of this amazing Club.

Our vision is to be the best entertainment venue in Melbourne's inner west. Our commitment to you is to deliver on this vision.

We pride ourselves on delivering a quality food offering at a value for money price. We trust you will enjoy dining with us today & look forward to receiving feedback. Feel free to contact me at the Club by email at manager@yarravilleclub.com.au

Sit back, relax & enjoy your dining experience with us today.

Kind regards,
